

CALL FOR NOMINATIONS

THE LSS and DLAA AWARD FOR EXCELLENCE IN TEACHING LAW 2019/20

To be awarded to a current, full or part-time faculty member who taught a law course (any year) at the Schulich School of Law on behalf of the Law Students' Society and Dalhousie Law Alumni Association.

In order to promote high quality teaching, this award is designed to honour extraordinary achievement in teaching and service to the students of the Schulich School of Law.

Every recipient must have demonstrated enthusiasm, commitment, dedication, comprehensive knowledge of the subject, effective methods of teaching, and an ability to communicate the subject material in such a manner as to further lead students to high academic achievement. Graduate supervision should also be considered. Special emphasis will be given to evidence of a nominee's involvement with students and impact on the direction of their lives and careers.

Please note that Professor Jonathan Shapiro was last year's recipient. He is not eligible to receive the award again this year.
